

Final Agenda

Launch of Open-Access Policy Options for Digital Sequence Information (DSI)

Wednesday, Oct 7th, 2020 | 14:00-16:30pm Central European Daylight Time

14:00-14:15

Welcome and Introductions

Opening of the webinar & housekeeping

Host: Dr. Upneet Hillebrand, Leibniz Institute DSMZ, Germany

Welcome to the participants and purpose of the webinar

Chair: Prof. Rachel Wynberg, University of Cape Town, South Africa

Introduction to the Leibniz Institutes & the need for new ideas on DSI

Prof. Jörg Overmann, Leibniz Institute DSMZ, Germany

14:15-15:30

WILDSI White Paper

The WILDSI project and requirements for DSI and successful science

Dr. Amber Hartman Scholz, Leibniz Institute DSMZ, Germany

Misfits: Nagoya Protocol and DSI

Prof. Ibon Cancio, University of the Basque Country & EMBRC, Spain

Q&A (Clarifying Questions) + Poll

Presentation of the policy options for DSI

Option 0: Dr. Guy Cochrane, EMBL-EBI, United Kingdom

Option 1: Prof. Esther van Zimmeren, University of Antwerp, Belgium

Option 2: Dr. Jens Freitag, Leibniz Institute IPK, Germany

Option 3: Dr. Paul Oldham, One World Analytics, United Kingdom

Option 4: Prof. Claudia Seitz, University of Ghent, Belgium;

Lecturer, University of Bonn, Seitz & Riemer, Germany

Option 5: Carolina dos S. Ribeiro, National Institute for Public Health and the Environment, the Netherlands

PPP: Torsten Thiele, Potsdam Institute for Advanced Sustainability Studies, Germany

Q&A (Clarifying Questions)

15:30- 16:30

Expert reactions and Panel Discussion

Melania Nelly Muñoz García, National Commission for Biodiversity Management (CONAGEBIO), Ministry of Environment and Energy, Costa Rica

Dr. Hugo-Maria Schally, Head of Unit, DG Environment, European Commission

Audience Q&A

Next Steps

Dr. Amber Hartman Scholz, Leibniz Institute DSMZ, Germany

Closing Remarks

Chair